

The No-Call List is one of the best consumer actions to be enacted in some years. To change it is to weaken it. Those of us who are enjoying uninterrupted meals and evenings would be very unhappy to see this changed. My personal feelings are, "if I want to buy something, I will shop for it. Interrupting private time in my home will not make me like or desire the product. It will have the opposite effect!"